Traffic Offenses

Traffic and parking enforcement is and has been a priority function of the University Police Department. This is not only from a safety point of view for the students, faculty, staff, and visitors to our campus, but also to ensure the prime mission of education by the college is carried out without interruption or undue interference.

Our campus setting lends itself to a considerable amount of vehicular traffic each day, and is also a convenient "shortcut" for the surrounding residents. This high-density area is also restricted by physical limitations on the number of parking lots and spaces available.

While traffic violations are not considered as serious as Part I and Part II Crimes, the importance of good traffic control and the volume of traffic offenses on campus require close attention
